

AWAITS DEATH WITH HIS JAWS LOCKED

Harry Candler, a Virginia Carpenter, Stricken With Tetanus.

CAME FROM FALLS CHURCH

Rusty Nail Wounds His Foot and the Dreaded Affliction Follows—Delayed Treatment Until Too Late to Save His Life, Doctors Think.

The first case of lockjaw, or tetanus, treated in this city for some time arrived at the Emergency Hospital this morning, in the person of Harry E. Candler, thirty-three years of age, a carpenter by trade, who resides in Falls Church, Va. The jaws of the unfortunate man are locked tightly.

Last Thursday Candler while working in the vicinity of the Long Bridge struck a rusty nail in his foot. He paid no attention to the wound until last night when it pained him so that he came to the hospital in this city from Falls Church.

The attack of lockjaw was then in the first stages and the surgeons after treating him, urged him to stay at the institution, stating that they believed they could prevent the dreadful ailment from resulting fatally. But Candler had some business to attend to and left the hospital after receiving treatment.

This morning he returned to the institution in a terrible condition, being so weak that he had to be carried to the ward. The unfortunate man suffered intensely from pain and owing to the rapid progress made by the affliction during the night the doctors had no hope of his recovery. His relatives in Falls Church have been notified of his condition and will reach the hospital this afternoon.

THE MAY QUEEN PRESENTED.

Successful Performance of Operetta to Aid Church Fund.

A large sum of money was added last night to the building fund of the Holy Name Church by the successful presentation of the operetta "The May Queen" by members of the Holy Name Society at the National Rifles Club. The hall was crowded with the members and friends of the church and the Rev. Father Thomas J. Kervick, its pastor. The cast of characters consisted of the following: Misses Anna Shea, Inez Maley, Nattie Kelly, Agnes Shea, Belle Nelson, Bertha Sullivan, Lucy Miller, Anna O'Neil, Catherine McGraw, Ella Fitz Gibbons, McGraw, Shea, and Sullivan; the scarf drill was performed by Misses Anna Shea, Anna Siss, Emma Turner, Mary Morgan, Marie Bricker, Mary Rice, Julia Cunningham, Mary Huppold, Jeanette Joy, Florence Nutall, Beulah Seibert, Edna Webster, Hilda Rice, Marion Mortimer, Mary Miller, Marie Gaghan, Ruth Seibert, Regina Burns, Madge Gritton, Marie Murphy, and Nellie Gaghan.

During the operetta Miss Belle Nelson gave a recitation: Miss Nettle Kelly sang a solo; the flower dance was executed by the Misses Fitz Gibbons, McGraw, Shea, and Sullivan; the scarf drill was performed by Misses Anna Shea, Anna Siss, Emma Turner, Mary Morgan, Marie Bricker, Mary Rice, Julia Cunningham, Mary Huppold, Jeanette Joy, Florence Nutall, Beulah Seibert, Edna Webster, Hilda Rice, Marion Mortimer, Mary Miller, Marie Gaghan, Ruth Seibert, Regina Burns, Madge Gritton, Marie Murphy, and Nellie Gaghan.

The operetta was presented under the management of Misses Rose Ofenstein, Florence Ofenstein and Florence C. Reagan, members of the Holy Name Society.

FAMILY ATTACKED BY FIERCE DOG

Came From the Grounds of An Orphan Asylum.

Police Are Notified and the Animal Is Turned Over to the Tender Mercies of the Pound Man.

Mr. Her L. Quackenbush, of 2000 F Street northwest, recently wrote to the District Commissioners complaining of being attacked by a large dog which ran out of the grounds of the St. John's Church Orphan Asylum. He states that on March 27 he was walking past the institution with his wife and two children, when they were fiercely attacked by the animal referred to.

The complaint was referred to the Police Department, and Lieut. R. B. Boyle, of the Third Precinct, has reported that Sergeant Judge called upon the sister in charge of the institution and received from her permission to dispose of the dog in any way thought advisable. The dog in question and two others were taken away to be disposed by the pound men.

Major Sylvester, in referring the matter to the Commissioners, takes occasion to say that the circumstance affords another illustration of the necessity for the dog law proposed some time ago and now pending in Congress.

About 9 o'clock this morning Maria Chamberlain, eleven years of age, living on Fort Street, between Eleventh and Twelfth Streets in Brookland, D. C., was bitten on her right arm by a dog, the property of Charles McGee. The little girl was removed to a nearby drug store where her wound was cauterized, after which she went to her home. The dog will in all probability be killed by the police of the Tenth precinct.

LIQUOR CASE FIZZLES.

Police Refuses to Believe His Own Witness.

Another interesting case in which the charge was an alleged violation of the liquor law came up in the Police Court today.

The defendant was Jacob Diemer, who has a saloon on D Street, between Sixth and Seventh, northwest.

A negro named William Dixon was brought forward by the police to testify that he bought a bottle of whisky at Diemer's place on Sunday.

He proved a disappointment to the prosecution, however, in swearing that he took a bottle of whisky from the refrigerator in one of the back rooms of the Diemer's house and left a quarter on the box.

Police Sergeant Goss here introduced a written statement signed by Dixon to the effect that he bought the whisky from Diemer's son. To this Dixon replied by saying that he was locked up by the police when the paper was signed, and left the inference that he signed it to gain liberty.

Sergeant Goss in turn denied this allegation, whereupon Attorney Sellers, who appeared as counsel for Diemer, asked the sergeant whether, in the light of the variance between Dixon's paper and his statement as to how it was obtained, and his verbal testimony, he would believe him on oath.

Sergeant Goss answered that he would not, and the case was submitted to the jury without argument. A verdict of acquittal was rendered.

POLICEMAN'S $10 DRINK.
Was Sick, Couldn't Find the Surgeon, and Prescribed for Himself.

The Commissioners have approved the recommendation of Major Sylvester in the case of Private W. J. Quinlan, of the Police Department, who was charged with conduct unbecoming a policeman and found guilty by the Trial Board.

It appears that the officer was sick and reported so to his precinct. He states that he called upon the police surgeon twice, but did not find him. He then, according to the evidence, went home, took a drink of liquor and went to bed. It also appears that when the surgeon called to see him he was under the influence of liquor, but denied having taken any.

Major Sylvester states that orders have been frequently issued to members of the force that they should not prescribe for themselves in case of illness, although he is of the opinion that Quinlan made an honest effort to reach the surgeon. For endeavoring to deceive the surgeon Major Sylvester recommends that the officer be fined $10; and that he be warned to proceed hereafter in accordance with the requirements of the police manual.

NEWS AND GOSSIP FROM GEORGETOWN

The Rev. Mr. Day Returned to His Pastorate.

Has Been in Charge of the West Washington Methodist Episcopal Church for About Four Years.

The Rev. Frank L. Day has been reappointed by the Maryland Conference pastor of the West Washington Methodist Episcopal Church, South, on Thirty-third Street, near Q. The Rev. Mr. Day, to whom the success of the little church is largely due, has held the pastorate for about four years, having succeeded the Rev. Mr. Beall, the first pastor of the church. Through the efforts of Mr. Day the congregation has purchased outright the church property on Thirty-third Street from the West Street Presbyterian Church. In the past few years the congregation has rapidly increased.

The local branch of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, was organized something over five years ago, the Rev. Mr. Beall and Judge Oliver P. Johnson being the prime movers. The first meetings were held in the large brick building at 1525 Thirty-second Street northwest. Several months after its organization the chapel belonging to the West Street Presbyterian Church was rented and later purchased.

At Christ Church yesterday vestrymen, wardens, and other officers were elected as follows: Messrs. M. J. Adler, William B. Orme, J. H. Gordon, G. G. Botcher, Henry S. Matthews, Benjamin Miller, Downes Wilson, W. A. Gordon; Henry S. Matthews, registrar; William B. Orme, treasurer; William Wheatley and J. H. Bradley, wardens, and J. H. Gordon, W. B. Orme, delegates to diocesan convention.

At St. Alban's Church—Vestrymen, James B. Nourse, James H. Taylor, E. S. Best, R. S. Chew, Edward Brooke, David T. Weaver, F. Baker Weaver, and Charles Davidson. The latter was elected to fill the vacancy made by the resignation of Mr. John Sherman.

An entertainment which promises to be very successful will be given tomorrow evening at the Tenleytown Baptist Church, under the auspices of the Ladies' Mite Society. The programme will consist of musical and literary numbers, to be rendered by local and visiting talent. Mr. Percy Foster, leader of the Moody Choir, will have the programme in hand.
